Developed by the Bazelon Center for Mental Health Law in a three-year project funded by the Itelson Foundation. The production of these materials and their distribution outside to public mental health systems, attorneys and families, state protection and advocacy systems and other mental health advocates is supported by the Tragedy Technical Assistance Project of the National Association of State Mental Health Program Directors (NASMHPD) and the Division of State and Community System Development (Mental Health Block Grant) of the Center for Mental Health Services, Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Additional support for the project came from the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation.
